State Asks Raubinger To Get Kennedy To Act On Housing Bias

Executive Order Promise Not Kept

NEWARK... Attorney Herbert H. Tate, state chairman of the Housing Committee of the NAACP created a mild sensation at the public hearing of the Civil Rights Commission Tuesday in the City Council Chamber at Newark City Hall, when he called upon the Commission to prevail upon the President to issue an Executive Order "to prohibit discrimination in all housing aided directly or indirectly by the Federal Government."

After detailing the various reasons used to deprive Negroes of housing and the hardships it imposes upon those so discriminated against, Tate then lit the spotlight when he said in a clear and sincere voice:

"Members of the Commission, it is you that National recognition of discrimination in housing as a central issue in the whole field of civil rights, is attributable in a large measure, to the work and efforts of the Commission itself and the 34-State Advisory Committee which serve that agency."

"I believe that no more important recommendation can be made by the NAACP or any other responsible organization than that the President of the United States act quickly and firmly by Executive Order to prohibit discrimination in all housing aided directly or indirectly by the Federal Government."

"The President must act. His repeated campaign promises to issue an Executive Order banning discrimination in Federal assisted housing was a key factor in his election. In fact, it has been stated that this civil rights commitment helped him win 59% of the votes cast by Negroes during the presidential election."

"His delay is disappointing and his deference to conservative pressures and legislative privileges is bewildering to his supporters."

"The patience of Negroes and other enlightened Americans however, is not inexhaustible. Although, fully mindful of the Administration's noble efforts in voting, transportation and Federal employment, these persons place an extra value on residential freedom, which they see, as the key to all civil rights progress. The alarming possibility that equality of opportunity in federally assisted housing might be prolonged another year could be translated in the November elections."

"The alarming rumor out of Washington has it that the Executive Order if issued, would be limited to banning discrimination in federally assisted housing contracts. THE EFFECTIVE DATE of the Order, if this is true, then the Executive Order would do little to ease the problems of racial discrimination in the many new renewal programs. FIA-VA Mortgage Insured Developments and public housing projects which already exist. An Executive Order which failed to cover existing vacant sales and rental units would fall short of providing equal opportunity for Negro Americans in Federally assisted housing."

"FIA-VA mortgage Insured suburban communities, being almost closed to Negroes. Public housing projects, already 81% segregated, would retain their separate but equal identity. New opportunities and the construction of new public housing projects would grind to a standstill unless, the requirement of non-discrimination were to be shared by other local projects already in existence."

"Nearly 1,000 urban renewal projects across the nation, many of which have abused the rights and interests of Negro families, would remain unhealed by an Executive Order which failed to affect federal projects initiated before the effective date of the Order."

"Negroes are congested in Central City ghettos simply because they are not permitted to move into 'Lily-White' FHA suburban communities, which surround the nation's great cities. Federal housing officials, forecasting a slow-down in suburban construction now are concentrating their new programs in urban areas."

"If the President issues an Executive Order, limited ONLY to new construction, he will in effect side-step racial exclusion in suburbs and grant Negroes their freedom only in the cities," Tate concluded.

Zuber Raps NAACP Move To Get State Comm. To Hear Case

TRENTON... The highly controversial Englewood school case officially was placed before State Commissioner of Education Raubinger by the NAACP who filed a petition of appeal with him Monday.

This action, which had been recommended by Federal Judge Anthony T. Albright, when he civilly committed the case to the NAACP, was filed with the State Commissioner of Education Raubinger, who is expected to hear the case before the State Board of Education on September 17, 1962.

Zuber immediately blasted the NAACP for seeking action before Raubinger, by declaring: "This could hampering our efforts to get the case before the Federal court. Frankly, this has confused the entire Negro community," he contended. He charged that by taking the case before Raubinger, that the NAACP had reopened the case which he will hear the case. The action taken by the NAACP was in compliance with orders of the gilt would "put a not be placed before the Federal court, which would be a failure of the NAACP's administrative remedies."

Many Negroes have opposed the court action taken by Zuber in the past and his failure to place his complaint before Raubinger. His reluctance to take that action, became even more disturbing after his case was thrown out of the Federal Court with express directions to file it before Commissioner Raubinger. These persons feel that Judge Augelli will again insist that Zuber carry out the previous orders of the court before he will hear the case. The action taken by the NAACP was in compliance with orders of the the Federal Court and could lead to a speedy and satisfactory settlement of the controversy.

Meanwhile, the board of education held a public meeting Monday night and readmitted its central intermediate school for fifteenth and sixteenth grades to eliminate racial imbalances. Further, the Englewood school board listed two alternatives that might be attempted to end the impasse that has existed for more than a year in the Bergen County community. They were: • Reassignment of pupils to other districts to equalize white and Negro enrollments.

'Doc' WILSON THE MAN WHO KNOWS

COURAGE is the backbone of man. The man with courage has persistence. He states what he believes and puts it into execution. The lack of courage creates financial as well as mental and moral difficulties. You can therefore see the value of concentration on courage. It is a most vital element of success.

What a new problem comes up, instead of looking upon it as something to be achieved, the man or woman without courage looks for reasons Why It Cannot Be Done and failure is naturally the almost inevitable result.

WHAT IS COURAGE? "It is the Will to Do." It takes no more energy to be courageous than to be cowardly.

NEVER let another's opinion effect you; he or she cannot tell what you are able to do; they do not know what you can do with your forces. The truth is you do not know yourself until you put yourself to the test.

Just the moment you allow someone to influence you against what you think is right, you lose that confidence in yourself that inspires courage and carries with it all the forces which courage creates.

EVIL is but the product of ignorance, and everyone who possesses the power to use the power to overcome ignorance and evil. All that is necessary to do it is to exercise the Will and concentrate upon happy subjects.

CONCENTRATE on just the opposite of fear, want, poverty and sickness. New ideas, your own ability, You Have Plenty, If You Will Just Use It.

Dear Doc Wilson—
What is "Strange Sickness"? They tell me that strange sickness is what my girlfriend is suffering with. She was normal and fine six months ago when we first met. I did not know that she had just broke-up with her man friend. When we started going steady he tried to get back in her good graces and she was cold. I understand he went to see "somebody"—in fact, they tell me he saw two "somebody's," one in Jersey, then returned down to Savannah Ga. and saw somebody else. One of these somebody's placed a double whammy on Alice. So now she acts very "Shelly." All of a sudden she has no desire to even live. Our get-together life is completely dead and this could never be Alice for when she's her real self she's everything. Her conversation wanders and she's an ice cube in the places where she used to be a spitter. I have close to three thousand saved, and am willing to spend it in her behalf to rid her of this wretched cure.

The somebody you speak of must be a Nobody. Strange Sickness is referred to as such, because it is so difficult to understand. Bring your girl to Newark Saturday morning. It's an all-day job. Many roots and oils must be used.

Dear Doc Wilson—

What is it that my wife and I are having the finest health build-up and social relationship since they started taking those pills you write about. I wonder if you too late for me. (42) and my husband (44) to enjoy the same pleasure. We both have slow down to a crawl and need a use life during our present pain of life.

ANSWER:

It is never too late. The pills merely restore the necessary energy.

Dear Doc Wilson: From the beginning of this letter I must say thanks for you have rescued me from being a "strange sickness" personality. The pills are wonderful. Life began anew for me after only six days. My wife is amazed at my new born energy. I intend to use the mail winter. Where can I reach you by phone Saturday as I wish to try something sensational that I do not wish to put on paper. I'm like a kid again.

ANSWER:

The shoes arrived, and thanks. They are much too big, but I intend to stuff the toes with cotton so I can wear them for an hour or so to please the spirit from whence they came, then I will give them to a friend who has a foot they will fit. WHAT A FOOT!

North Carolina Mutual Selects Local Architect

DURHAM, N. C. — After more than a year of research, investigation and a succession of meetings, the Board of Directors of the North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company unanimously decided to commission the internationally famous firm of Welton Beckett & Associates, with M. A. Ham of Durham to be associated with them, to design the new home office building to be located at the southeast corner of Duke and West Chapel Hill Streets in Durham.

The announcement was made by Asa T. Spaulding, president of North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company. In a statement to the press, he said: "Mindful of their responsibility to the Negro community and the public throughout the territory of operations, the Board believed selection of the Welton Beckett firm to be the wisest that might have been made."

"Welton Beckett has been aptly described as the 'businessman's architect' because he insists on high quality buildings at minimum costs. His conviction that the client has a personality to be expressed which supercedes the building of a structure to himself has endeared him to his clients. Thus, in addition to his office building in New York City, Welton Beckett Life, and Traveler's insurance companies, his repeat work for Henry J. Kaiser, the Hiltons, Gimbel's and other department stores provide eloquent testimony of the beauty, taste and utility of his buildings."

Mr. Spaulding said: "It is a well-known fact," Mr. Spaulding continued, "that Negro workers have limited opportunity and are the 'last hired and first fired.' With the economic situation facing the country in the months ahead and the present day employment practices in mind, the management of the company intends to employ every sound method to guarantee fair and equitable employment opportunities for Negroes in all trades and job levels in which they are qualified in the construction field. The Welton Beckett firm has a fair employment program of more than 26 years standing. They have qualified Negro technicians, draftsmen, and trainees on their staff. We are confident this their past experience will be more than helpful in the maximum use of Negro workers on our new home office building."

County College Movement Begins In New Jersey

A start on county colleges will probably be one of the biggest developments in New Jersey education this year.

Groups in several counties are already working on a two-year college under provisions of a bill which Gov. Richard J. Hughes signed into law this spring. Three or four counties may be ready to start building next summer. Others will be further along in their planning.

A county college would be established this way:

The board of freeholders would request the funds after voting to build a two-year college in the county.

The State Board of Education would have to certify that a need exists for the proposed college. The board of freeholders would then appoint a board of trustees to operate the college and a board of estimate to fix the amount of money the county would have to provide.

The board of trustees would hire a president for the college. The president would hire the other college officials and use security, subject to the board's approval. Equipment would be purchased in the same way.

Group in Atlantic and Bergen counties are working actively for establishment of two-year colleges. Preparations are at the taking stage in several other counties.

Because of the time needed for planning, there is no money in the current state budget for helping in the construction of county colleges. However, the state budget for the fiscal year beginning next July 1 is expected to contain funds for kicking off the county college movement in New Jersey.

Urban League Conference Decries 'Empty' In 'Rights' Fight

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.—The more than 700 delegates and visitors attending the five-day Urban League National Conference which ended here Friday have returned to scores of communities throughout the nation.

The 1962 Conference, which marked with the spirit that has vibrated the expanded drive of the League's reorganized approach, in its service to urban-dwelling Negro citizens, ended with the traditional Conference banquet held in the Pontifical Hotel.

Whitney M. Young, Jr., Urban League National Executive Director, addressing 500 that jammed the banquet hall, closed the annual meeting in a ringing challenge.

He warned the nation that its Negro citizens face a "nightmare of horrors" unless prompt and decisive steps are taken by the total community to remedy the injustices under which its Negro population still lives despite the gains achieved in recent years.

"The Urban League serves notice to the country that these remedial actions be taken now," he said, in reporting on the work of the League during the past year of its stewardship, "else they are," he said, "a midnight of horror and disillusionment unparalleled in our history, one that confronts 80 percent of the nation's Negro population."

He buried the challenge that gains achieved in the struggle for equal opportunity are "empty victories" unless they can be translated into tangible economic, social and cultural accomplishments.

The National Urban League chief pointed out that by 1970 an estimated 70 percent of all Negro citizens in the country will be in major cities and communities in the North in which, although discrimination is either technically or legally barred, the Negro citizen will continue handicapped due to the "historic deprivation that has beset his race for generations."

"We stand today on the verge of winning rights and respect as first-class citizens long denied," he declared. "The Urban League's concern must be clearly focused not on the highly trained and skill alone, nor solely on the few who are, hopefully secured, permanently demoralized and destined for chronic dependency."

"Our primary concern must be for that 90 percent who fall between these extremes. Unless we can begin to get entrance jobs in all types of employment, available middle income housing, good comprehensive educational opportunities, we will be facing not only a situation which Dr. James Conant has referred to as 'social dynamite' but assume the proportions of a nuclear explosion."

Also addressing the banquet meeting was NUL President Henry Steeger, New York magazine publisher, who spoke of the motivations, enthusiasm, creativity and self-employment that serve the volunteer as he observes the accelerated pace of the U. L. program.

"I believe that at this moment in history one of the most vital elements in achieving the expansion League program effort is the development of the youth and youth incentives, housing, and health and welfare, has been the major key to the solution of the resources at our disposal," said Mr. Steeger.

"There are, and have been many reasons why people become involved in race relations particularly those of the so-called 'majority group,' he pointed out, others confessed. Still others, "with a smug feeling, believe that they are 'doing something for democracy.' Some are motivated by strong religious feelings."

Also speaking at the banquet was Bill Myers, associate director of the Peace Corps, who spoke impressively of the need for better understanding, communication and sharing of know-how by people of all races throughout the world.

A number of awards were presented, Mrs. Elmer W. Johnson of Rockford, Illinois, presented the Girl Scout 50 year anniversary plaque to the Urban League. The important contributions that the U. L. has made to scouting over the years.

For the seventh consecutive year, Victor R. Daly, president of the American Bridge Association, presented the U. L. a check for $1,000 contributed by that organization. Hobert R. Reynolds Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks and a newly named NUL Board member announced the fraternal organization pledges to help raise $10,000 to support the League's program.

Highlighting the Wednesday session was the adoption of major resolutions. The U. L. went on record in requesting President Kennedy to establish a national policy on education; approving the use of racial statistical data on education, family status, annual income and employment status but urging "unmistakable care" in the use of these social statistical data so as to protect the rights of individuals; and opposing the Hill-Burton Act "that encourages a pattern of segregation against Negroes in hospitals benefiting from Federal funds."

The resolutions were outgrowths of the four task force sessions on job development and employment, youth incentives and education, housing, and health and welfare.

Other highlights of the sessions were: An address by James McBride Dabbs, president of the Southern Regional Council in Atlanta in which he said "it is the Negroes who are lacking the South wherever it is going."

He said the "new Negro" will reveal the "old basic traditions of the South purified and enriched by the frustrations of all Southerners."

John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State University, and Chairman of the U. S. Commission on Civil Rights, addressed Diseases and to co-chairman the 1962 Drive for Retarded Children.

William Ewing, President of the Madam A. Williams Association, sponsoring this tribute expressed deep appreciation to Mrs. Butterfield for her wonderful cooperation and her outstanding leadership ability, taken over from the Essex County, New Jersey, and especially in the city of East Orange. She will be working in conjunction with the Publicity chairman, Mrs. Vivian M. Braxton and Mrs. Joseph Milano, Publicity Secretary both of Orange. Their releases will be covering the entire State.

Mrs. Butterfield, who will be the Orange representative was the first in East Orange to pledge her wholehearted support. During the occasion secretary to Essex County Sheriff LeRoy D'Almeida but also the former Secretary of the Essex County Registry of Way Commission, Sheriff D'Almeida a lifelong friend of Mrs. Williams will be the honorary co-chairman of the entire affair.

Mrs. Butterfield has an excellent record for her many volunteer services in the past as and a meeting of more than 1,000 in the Civic Auditorium. "It is perfectly clear that the frustration of civil rights and civil relations now lies in our vast and ever-expanding urban areas," he said. "We must, of necessity, resolve the social problems appearing in new dimensions if we are to thrive as a viable social system."

The Conference presented a special citation to the Raymond Smith family of Marquette, Mich., as the "Urban League Family of the Year," in recognition of their extraordinary example of zealous motivating and educating a large family.

The 1964 National Conference will be held in Louisville, and in 1965, in Miami. Next year, the Conference will be in Los Angeles.

A delegation from Louisville presented an impromptu approval that their city be chosen as the 1964 site.

Host of the five-day conference was the Grand Rapids Urban League, under the leadership of Rev. Lewis B. Sneed and Paul Phillips, president and executive director, respectively.

AN ORCHID TO THE WINNER: Mrs. Hilda V. Watkins receives, among other gifts, a huge orchid from J. W. Christian of the F & M Schaefer Brewing Company as Whitney M. Young, Jr., Executive Director of the National Urban League adds congratulations on her election as "Secretary of the Year." The presentation was made at an Orchid Luncheon during the recent National Conference of the League in Grand Rapids, Michigan. This signal honor to Mrs. Watkins is the result of balloting by the professional and Clerical Personnel of the National Urban League and its 65 affiliates. Mrs. Watkins is secretary to the National Services Department at the Detroit Urban League, under the directorship of Mr. Ernest L. Brown Jr., where she has served for the past 17 years.

Progressive action is both the motive and objective of democracy. If not "Truth" then the SPIRIT OF TRUTH will make men free and creative. They serve RACE or GROUP or SELF best, who like Roger Williams were chains for themselves, not right of privilege which is not granted to all men equally.

Decency Vs. Delinquency

"We start with two basic beliefs. First, that successful delinquency control programs must have total community participation. Second, to be effective, these programs must be planned with the greatest care. We hope that if we do our job well, what we learn will be of use to rural areas and small cities throughout the United States."

The author of the statement above is the Rev. Wesley G. Nicholson, President of the Lane County (Oregon) Youth Study Board, a newly-formed, county-wide organization. His words are significant; since the President's Committee on Juvenile Delinquency announced this week that Lane County is to receive the first Federal grant for a program to combat juvenile delinquency in a rural area (see news story).

What is also significant is the fact that the Federal Government has finally begun to realize that juvenile delinquency is not the domain of the larger cities, but of virtually ALL communities. We'd like to take the thought one step further, and suggest that a percentage of juvenile delinquency in the larger cities may have been spawned in the suburbs and rural areas, where such a thing is "unheard of."

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Anthony J. Celebrezze, made two succinct points in announcing the grant, this week, to wit: "We know too little about the causes of rural delinquency but it is a growing problem" . . . "Farm areas have higher school dropout rates than urban centers, yet farm jobs are becoming increasingly scarce."

Time was when inactivity was the least of the problems a farm youth had to face, and therefore he was less prone to get into trouble ("Idle hands are the devil's workshop" . . . remember?). Today, with farm employment down, (due to automation, production cutbacks, etc.) the idle farm youth is rapidly becoming a problem to his parents, and the law enforcement agencies.

The solution to juvenile delinquency (both city and rural) is almost academic, as we see it. If there was enough work to go around, the problem of J.D. would rapidly disappear. Therefore, it would seem that the Federal Government has a moral right, and a duty, to provide Public Works, domestic Peace Corps projects, training and apprenticeship programs and the like as a means of rescuing our youth from the brink of disaster.

We also believe that Rev. Nicholson's first point can't be stressed too hard, or too often. He contends that "successful delinquency control programs must have TOTAL COMMUNITY PARTICIPATION." What are YOU doing to help this effort?

Consolidation Of School Districts Brings Efficiency, Wider Offerings

Public schools have found one significant method of increasing the quality in education: the merger of two or more small districts into one large district can operate efficiently.

Consolidation — the union of two or more school systems from kindergarten through 12th grade — can streamline administration and, through pooled resources, provide considerably better schooling for the combined communities than they could afford alone.

New Jersey has 23 consolidated districts operating 87 elementary schools, 7 junior high schools and 12 high schools. Some 54,785 were enrolled in them last September.

A related movement in New Jersey has been the formation of regional secondary school districts: joint operations at the secondary level. At present, New Jersey has 36 regional districts operating 34 secondary schools.

They New Jersey has traditionally been a state of big high schools. Lightly populated rural areas have sent their children to large high schools in nearby cities. Troubles arose only after World War II when high school populations in some cities became so large there was no room for tuition pupils.

At about the same time, the state encouraged small school districts to join together at the secondary level. The encouragement was in the form of additional financial aid to regionalized districts. In many cases, communities whose tuition pupils faced displacement at big city schools formed regional districts and built new high schools. Regionalism flourished in the 50's.

Whether or not the trend in New Jersey ever changes from regionalization to full consolidation will depend upon the former, to which the state provides financial aid to local schools. If encouragement is given for union from kindergarten through 12th grade, the new consolidated districts might increase as rapidly in the next decade as regionalism has in the last.

Educators argue that strong school programs have become a necessity in the nuclear age. Large cities have the resources to provide students with comprehensive offerings and a full range of services from kindergarten through high school. But the small community generally offers only limited school programs.

Public demand for better schools has increased to a point edged the inadequacy of the small school. Parents want more and better schools. They want them taught in new and better ways. They want them started earlier in the elementary grades. They want enriched courses in the liberal arts subjects, such as English. Unemployment has emphasized the need for technical education and vocational training. The federal government is encouraging wider teaching of foreign language. Parents are pressuring the schools for more guidance services, more ap-cal help, more remedial work. Further consolidation seems to be the inevitable solution for many small suburban and rural school systems.

Life Line

By JOSEPH L. HARRINGTON
Staff Writer

The chances are that if someone would ask you why you bought Life Insurance, you would probably name that you wanted to spare your family the hardships of your last expense, your mortgage on the home, a bitter pill of your son or daughter having to work a full time job while trying to get a higher education. As we go about our work talking with people, it seems that most insurance buyers bought to protect someone or something from unforeseen hardships.

But, is this the only reason you bought?

Have you considered buying insurance as an investment?

The twenty-eighth of May this year was a humbling day for many Americans. Wall Street crashed. Security brokers shook their heads in disbelief. Some culpable transgressors. A man who lives on fashionable Beakman place in New York City discovered that he had just lost $2,000,000. Trading on the New York Stock Exchange was so fast that the tape showing transactions was more than 30 minutes behind. It had not been so slow since 1929. It was truly "Black Monday."

Jim and Pamela Sogins of Winkley, Minnesota had deliberated long and carefully about their family's security. They had finally decided on purchasing so called "glamor" stocks. They bought a block of stock in growth potential. When Jim kissed Pamela goodnight on Friday, he felt very good. He had just taken $2,500 from their now depleted bank account and purchased some stock in three companies. Their broker had helped them choose stocks with excellent prospects for growth. The Sogins family had even eaten that night at one of the town's leading restaurants. They were having a private little celebration. Jim had worked for three years in order to make that a day's salary. Pamela had read the budget closely, cutting off an expenditure here and there to make their dreams come true.

On Monday Jim called Pamela from his office. His throat was hoarse, his voice tremulous. He was fighting hard to appear as a man to his wife, but men are only old boys in a three year dropped on his neat white shirt. Pamela, in the kitchen, sat down with a third of her life. The companies they had selected were taking a terrible beating. After quickly scribbling his desk scratch pad, Jim concluded that their $2,500 investment had HARRINGTON depreciated $1,994 at the most — $1,000 gone in two hours of trading. And the loss could be worse.

Jim had only one consolation at that moment. The $10,000 Life Insurance contract his father had purchased for him as a boy was still holding its cash value. That was $20,000 of cold cash that could not be raided. It was safe. Jim smiled. Incurably. Stocks were fine, he thought to himself. But you can depreciate as well as appreciate. He picked up the telephone to call his insurance man.

Company Aiding Quake Victims

Johnson & Johnson, medical supply manufacturer, has announced it is donating $50,000 worth of surgical supplies and sutures to aid victims of the earthquake in Iran. The company is giving $2,000 worth of bandages and dressings, and its affiliate, Ethicon Inc., is donating $2,500 worth of surgical sutures.

The contribution is being made in cooperation with the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers' Association in Washington whose 10 members are helping to put together additional medical and pharmaceutical relief supplies for the earthquake victims.

Distribution of Johnson & Johnson's supplies will be made through the American Red Cross in Iran, the company said.

Nat'l. Urban League Re-elects Top Officers

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.—All officers of the National Urban League were re-elected by the Board of Trustees last week, with one exception, at the Board's meeting following the close of the agency's 1962 National Conference here.

The exception was the post of secretary, tenure of which is limited to two years, under by-laws of the NUL.

Re-elected to his third term as NUL president was Henry Stieger, New York magazine publisher. The other officers are: Malcolm Andrensen, New York attorney, senior vice president; John H. Johnson, Chicago, publisher of Ebony and Jet; vice president, Thomas G. Young, New York labor official, vice president, and Horro W. Rogers, New York marketing consultant, treasurer.

Mrs. Mollie Moon, New York social worker, who had held the post of secretary for two years, was ineligible for re-appointment. Elected to replace her as NUL secretary, was Mrs. Dorothy Hirschen, New York civic leader.

In addition to the officers, ten Board members were named to three-year terms expiring in 1965. Six of the ten are new additions to the governing body. The other four were re-elected.

The new trustees are: Eugene H. Butler, St. Louis, immediate past president of the St. Louis Urban League and also past president of the St. Louis Civil Liberties Committee, an affiliate of the American Civil Liberties Union; John G. Lewis, Jr., Baton Rouge, La., Sovereign Grand Commander of the United Supreme Council, A.A.R.E. of Freemasonry, Prince Hall Affiliation, Southern Jurisdiction and a member of the Board of Directors of the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund; and Edward C. Merritt, Pittsburgh, vice president and assistant to the President of U. S. Steel Corporation and a member of the NUL Committee; Everett P. O'Neil, Kansas City tire distributor and long time board member of the Kansas City U.L.; Hobson R. Reynolds, Philadelphia, Grand Exalted Ruler of the Improved Benevolent and Protective Order of the Elks of the World, former Pennsylvania Legislator Judge of the Magistrate's Court in Philadelphia; Louis B. Simon of New York, vice president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America and manager-secretary-treasurer of the Laundry

Workers Joint Board of New York City.

The latter two previously served on the NUL Board several years ago, the four re-elected are:

Mr. Andrensen; Joseph M. Baird, elected a year ago to fill an unexpired term. He is president of the Baird Chemical Company which manufactures, exports and imports chemicals; William H. Baldwin, New York, former NUL president and the son of Mrs. Ruth Standish Baldwin, NUL founder, and Dr. Ray E. Clarke, Cincinnati, former president of the Urban League of Greater Cincinnati.

SAVING WATER — As part of its plant-wide water conservation program during critical shortage, P. Ballantime & Sons Brewing Co. has abandoned truck washing at estimated saving of 100,000 gallons weekly. Here, Stephen Hochmaj, fleet maintenance superintendent places poster on truck explaining why it is not up to usual standard of appearance.

SAMUEL ARROYO

INSULT AND APOLOGY
Recently the magazine "Cronos" in Bogota, Colombia published an article by one of its editors, Mr. Carlos Restrepo which made discriminatory remarks about the habits of Puerto Ricans in New York. Mr. Restrepo said that the Puerto Ricans in New York are dirty, smooth and ignorant. Many of our leaders residing in the New Yorker metropolis sent thousands of hate letters and telegrams to the Colombian President, and to the offending magazine editors.

The Colombian Government officially apologized to the Puerto Rican Community through a letter addressed to our most interesting newspaper in the United States "El Diario De Nueva York." Another letter to the same newspaper was received from Mr. Restrepo as an "Apology." Restrepo says that he did not mean to insult all the Puerto Ricans, but only those who act in the way he does not approve.

I consider Mr. Restrepo's article just a FREE PRESSITY. With all my respect to Mr. Restrepo (which he doesn't deserve) I want to inform him of some things that he should not forget . . . (1) Criminal statistics of Bogota, Colombia shows that more than 200,000 persons have been murdered there in 10 years. (2) Bogota has more thieves than it should have. (3) Bogota has more pickpockets than any other city in the United States. Don't forget Mr. Restrepo, that we do not accept your "Apology."

Essex County Sheriff Leroy D'Alonzo that he favors legislation to permit the Essex County Sheriff to appoint Spanish-speaking court interpreters. The legislation to accomplish this will be introduced as an amendment to our substitute for an assembly measure granting such authority only to the Hudson County Sheriff.

Gov. Hughes decision did not come voluntarily or because he recognized the Essex County Spanish Speaking community but for my column "Puerto Rican News & Views" practically forced Gov. Hughes to make this decision. Anyway, to Gov. Hughes, my sincere gratitude for his good step in behalf of my people and "Thanks."

I urge the Essex County Sheriff kindness that when the time comes to appoint those court interpreters PLEASE APPOINT PUERTO RICANS!

Vets Day Comm. Planning Parade

The Newark 1962 Veterans Day Parade Committee met in Room B-21, Newark City Hall on Thursday evening, September 13th.

James Barletto, general chairman of the committee announced this list of officers for this year's parade committee: Mayor Hugh J. Addonizio, honorary chairman; Deputy Mayor Paul H. Bell, liaison officer; Jack Boska, grand marshal; Donato Sodano, deputy grand marshal; David Knox, chief of staff; Frank V. Lanzara, parade adjutant; Carlos V. Glod, military affairs chairman; Samuel Sachs, guests and reception chairman; Roy C. Walker, public relations chairman; James G. Caffrey Jr., announcer; Frank J. Messina, memorial church service chairman; Mrs. Louise Wannat, secretary.

The parade will be held on Sunday, November 11th, starting from Wright street and Pennsylvania avenue at 1:30 p.m., reviewed at the Newark City Hall and disbanded at Washington Park.

The committee expects this year's parade to be one of the largest. Besides units of the Armed Forces, the ROTC Cadets from Montclair University, and the Newark College of Engineering, Robert Treat Council Boy Scouts of America, Civil Defense, American Red Cross, Veterans organizations and their auxiliaries, eight Newark High School bands with their baton twirlers and majorettes and the Newark Police and Fire Departments will participate.

"In 'American Men of Science,' eighth edition, 126 Negroes are listed. Some of them as the organic chemist Dr. Percy L. Julian, are international of a Spanish newspaper. We hope that he intends to be more concerned with the welfare of the Spanish people in his television program than he was with his own.

Mr. Harmon Carlin, Editor of the first Spanish newspaper of Newark, "El Overlander" said that none of the Senators and Congressmen who were so disturbed over the United States Supreme Court ruling that public school prayers are unconstitutional have made objections about arrests of Negroes paying for equal rights in the public streets of Albany, Georgia. Carlin further stated that he wonders if these people who objected to the decision would permit school children to pray in the schools for equal rights.

ROUNDUP

By JOCKO MAXWELL
Sports Director
Radio Station WJNR

'JOCKO' MAXWELL

Last week we discussed the possibilities of the teams in the National Football League, this week we're putting the ole eagle eye on the ball clubs in the American Football League.

The American Football League in its third year predicts a banner year at the gate and if our crystal ball is in focus we feel that circuit will afford the nation's fans some spine-tingling gridiron play.

In the eastern division last year's kingpins, the Houston Oilers under a new coach Pop Ivy, fugitive from the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League must be considered the likely champions. The Oilers who went all the way last season are a team that explodes without notice. George Blanda is a steady passer, Charley Hennigan and Bill Groman are glue fingered receivers. Billy Cannon at left halfback has no equal in the league. The Oilers' defense is reeked. They'll be tough to defeat.

The Boston Patriots' defense their previous pass defense will cause trouble. Babe Parcell is a good passer and he has several fine targets including Earl Leggett the league's top scorer last season. Then too Ron Burton is a ball carrier who most always seems to pick up yardage. Bill Lott at fullback also is an asset. If the Patriots pass defense improves they could cause trouble.

The New York Titans under a new coach Bud Turner, the former Chicago Bear All Pro center will struggle along again this season. . . They lost Bill Mathis, their great fullback due to injury. . . Al Dorow is also among the missing at quarterback. Johnny Green, the former Dartmouth University passer is expected to fill Dorow's shoes. Specs Powell, and Don Maynard are good offensive players when they get the blocking. Blockers seem to be few and far between on the Titan team. Then too you never can tell what name more Harry Wismer, the team's president will make. Yet the Titans could be an interesting team to watch.

The Buffalo Bills tutored by Lou Saban, an Cleveland Brown star appear to have lacked a scoring punch last season. Al Dorow acquired from the New York Titans is expected to generate a slick passing attack. Mc Reynolds, Glenn Dan, a potentially fine end, Art Baker, the former Syracuse University workhorse, Wray Carlton, the ex Duke University flash are key men on the offense. The Bills' offensive line is strong with LaVerne Turcotte, Archie Mason and Billy Atkins sparking the defensive line.

In the western section of the American Football League, the San Diego Chargers seem to be the team that will finish on top. They fairly ooze with class. And Gibson is blessed with fine offensive riders like Paul Lowe, Charley Flowers, Jackie Lee a terrific passer. Rookies like John Hadl of Kansas, his old college chum Bert Coan will help amply. The Chargers defense is stout led by 317 pound Ernie Ladd. Bob Mitlanger of Penn State and Lance Alworth both rookies the Chargers have nothing to worry about on defense. Earl Faison, Ron Perry, Bill Hudson and Chuck Allen all first stringers are rough on halfbacks.

If the Dallas Texan halfbacks can stay healthy they'll cause some concern. Abner Haynes, Jack Spikes, Jimmy Saxon, the Texas flash, Johnny Robinson, Curt McClintock, the Kansas sensation like to carry that ball. Cotton Davidson is an 18 karat football pitcher. However, a poor defense hampers the Texans especially with the halfbacks prone to injuries.

The Denver Broncos, a failure last season hope for a new deal under a new coach Jack Faulkner. However they'll have the same old quarterback Frank Tripucka, the former Notre Dame star, Duane Stone, Bob Stranahan, Al Frazier, Gene Mingo are the offensive backs. The Broncos have a big line with Bud McFadin. Ken Adamson the outstanding players.

The Oakland Raiders another also can run last year hope for better things this season under Marty Feldman. The Raiders are rebuilding with a flock of rookies such as Tom Flores a quarterback from the College of the Pacific, and Gene White of Florida A & M, a speedy halfback. Bo Robinson, the ex Cornell University hot shot, Nick Pagnie, Clendon Daniels, could click in the backfield. The Raiders have sub par offensive ends and their defense is lousy.

From where we sit it seems that Houston and San Diego will clash head on again this autumn for the championship of the American Football League with the Houston Oilers a decided choice.

Well vacation time has arrived. . . Your reporter will be looking over the sports beat for more vacation spot. Our column will be resumed on Sept. 29th. Meanwhile the best to you and your you.

Ballantine Kicks Off For Giants

P. Ballantine & Sons Brewing Co. kicks off its eighth year of radio and TV sponsorship of the New York Football Giants, September 15 with the Browns game from Cleveland.

The company announced that all games — home and away — will be heard locally on Radio Station WJNR. All away games will be seen on CBS — Channel 4.

In addition, the company said three National League games in which the Giants are not involved also will be aired on radio and TV. The dates are November 22, Green Bay vs. Detroit; December 8, Washington vs. Baltimore; and December 15, Cleveland vs. San Francisco.

Also the Playoff Bowl game, on January 8, will be seen and heard on TV and radio.

Contrary to popular belief, the first Africans came to the New World, not in bondage, but accompanying the explorers. Some historians believe that one of the pilots with Columbus, Pedro Alonso Nino, was a Negro.

Ballantine Beer presents Golden Moments in Sports

as told by...

Roy Campanella

Tune in the Roy Campanella Show between games of every Yankee Doubleheader.

66 This Golden Moment happened in 1947, during the fourth game of a red-hot Dodger-Yankee World Series. You remember it. That's when Brooklyn pinch-hitter Cookie Lavagetto doubled off Bill Bevens in the ninth inning. Old Cookie won the game, but more important . . . when Cookie hit that big double off the wall, Yankee hurler Bill Bevens was just one out away from the first no-hitter in World Series history! 99
